

Public Health Nursing

Public health nurses:

- ▶ Monitor health trends and identify health risk factors unique to specific communities
 - ▶ Set local priorities for health-related interventions to provide the greatest benefit to the most people
 - ▶ Design and implement health education campaigns and disease prevention activities, such as immunizations and screenings
-

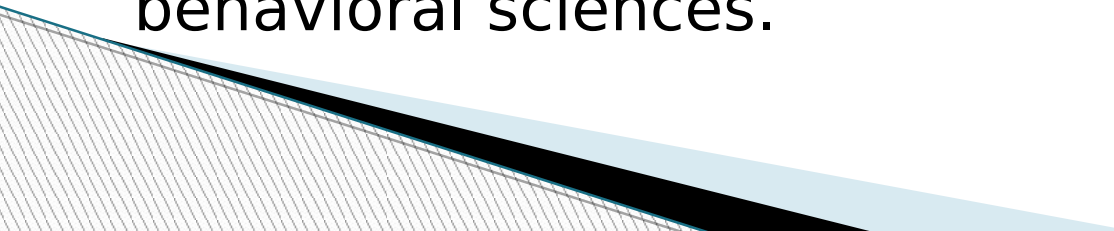

Role in the NC (traditional vs. Navy

- ▶ While most nurses care for one patient at a time, public health nurses care for entire populations.
 - ▶ By working with whole communities, public health nurses are able to educate people about health issues, improve community health and safety and increase access to care.
-

Prerequisites

- ▶ A bachelor's degree in nursing (BSN) at an accredited four-year college

Further Information

- ▶ The M.P.H. core course work is in biostatistics, epidemiology, health policy and management, environmental and occupational health, and social and behavioral sciences.
-

M.P.H. with a Concentration in Global Health

- ▶ Prepare for achieving a professional position in international public health with governmental and non-governmental agencies.
 - ▶ Global Health Practice courses focus on areas such as epidemiology, maternal and child health, management and socio-cultural health.
- 